

Module - Chainsaws and Human Factors Balancing Safety and Production

Overview

Students will be able to identify the common human factors that degrade decision making abilities. In addition, they will be presented with useful ideas to overcome these tendencies.

Exercise

Students will identify four personal trigger points that tell them they are not operating at peak mental efficiency and that it's time to take a break.

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

Special thanks to:

Mike Krupsky, Asst. Superintendent, Sawtooth Hotshots

Andrew Addey, Senior Firefighter, Sawtooth Hotshots

Godot Apuzzo, Equipment Specialist, MTDC, Missoula MT

Ian Grob, Photographic Technologist, MTDC, Missoula, MT

Ivan Pupulidy, USFS Human Performance Specialist

Student Workbook

This is a quick response bar code which, when scanned with a smartphone with the free, downloadable, QR scanner app, will link to the module evaluation. Google “QR scanner app” to select the right app for the right phone if your smart phone doesn’t have it. The link also goes to the module evaluation provided there is an internet connection.

<https://www.research.net/s/PL5LXRF>

